

Eclipse Long Term Support Program Summary – June 2013

Invitation:

18:15 to 19:15 tonight – LTS Reception at the
Crowne Plaza Bar

Sponsored by SAP, IBM, and the Eclipse
Foundation.

Agenda

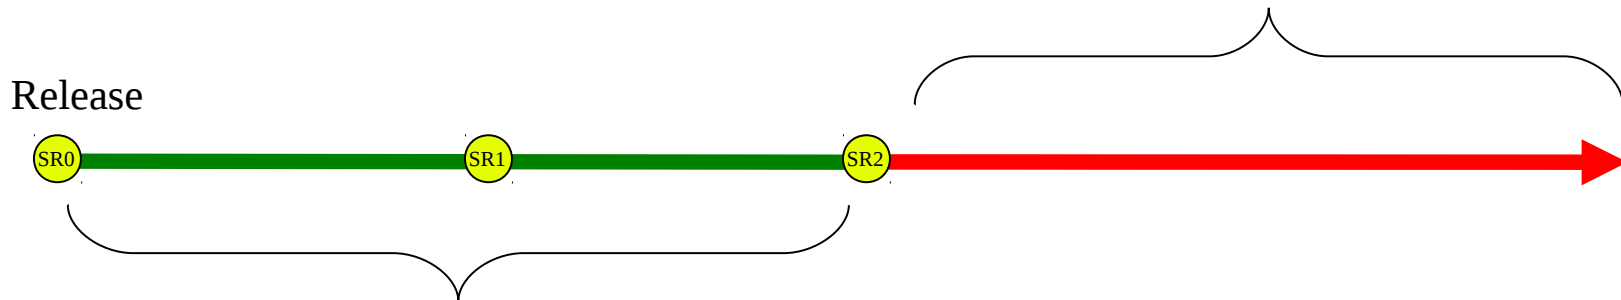

- What is LTS? Why? How long?
- LTS is a:
 - Marketplace
 - Infrastructure
 - Working group
- Infrastructure, benefits, & participation levels

The need for Long Term Support (LTS)

1) Support and maintenance offerings are needed that cover a variety of Eclipse projects and a number of releases.

2) Product and service life-cycles are often much longer than Eclipse community based maintenance as it stands today. What do you do after SR2?

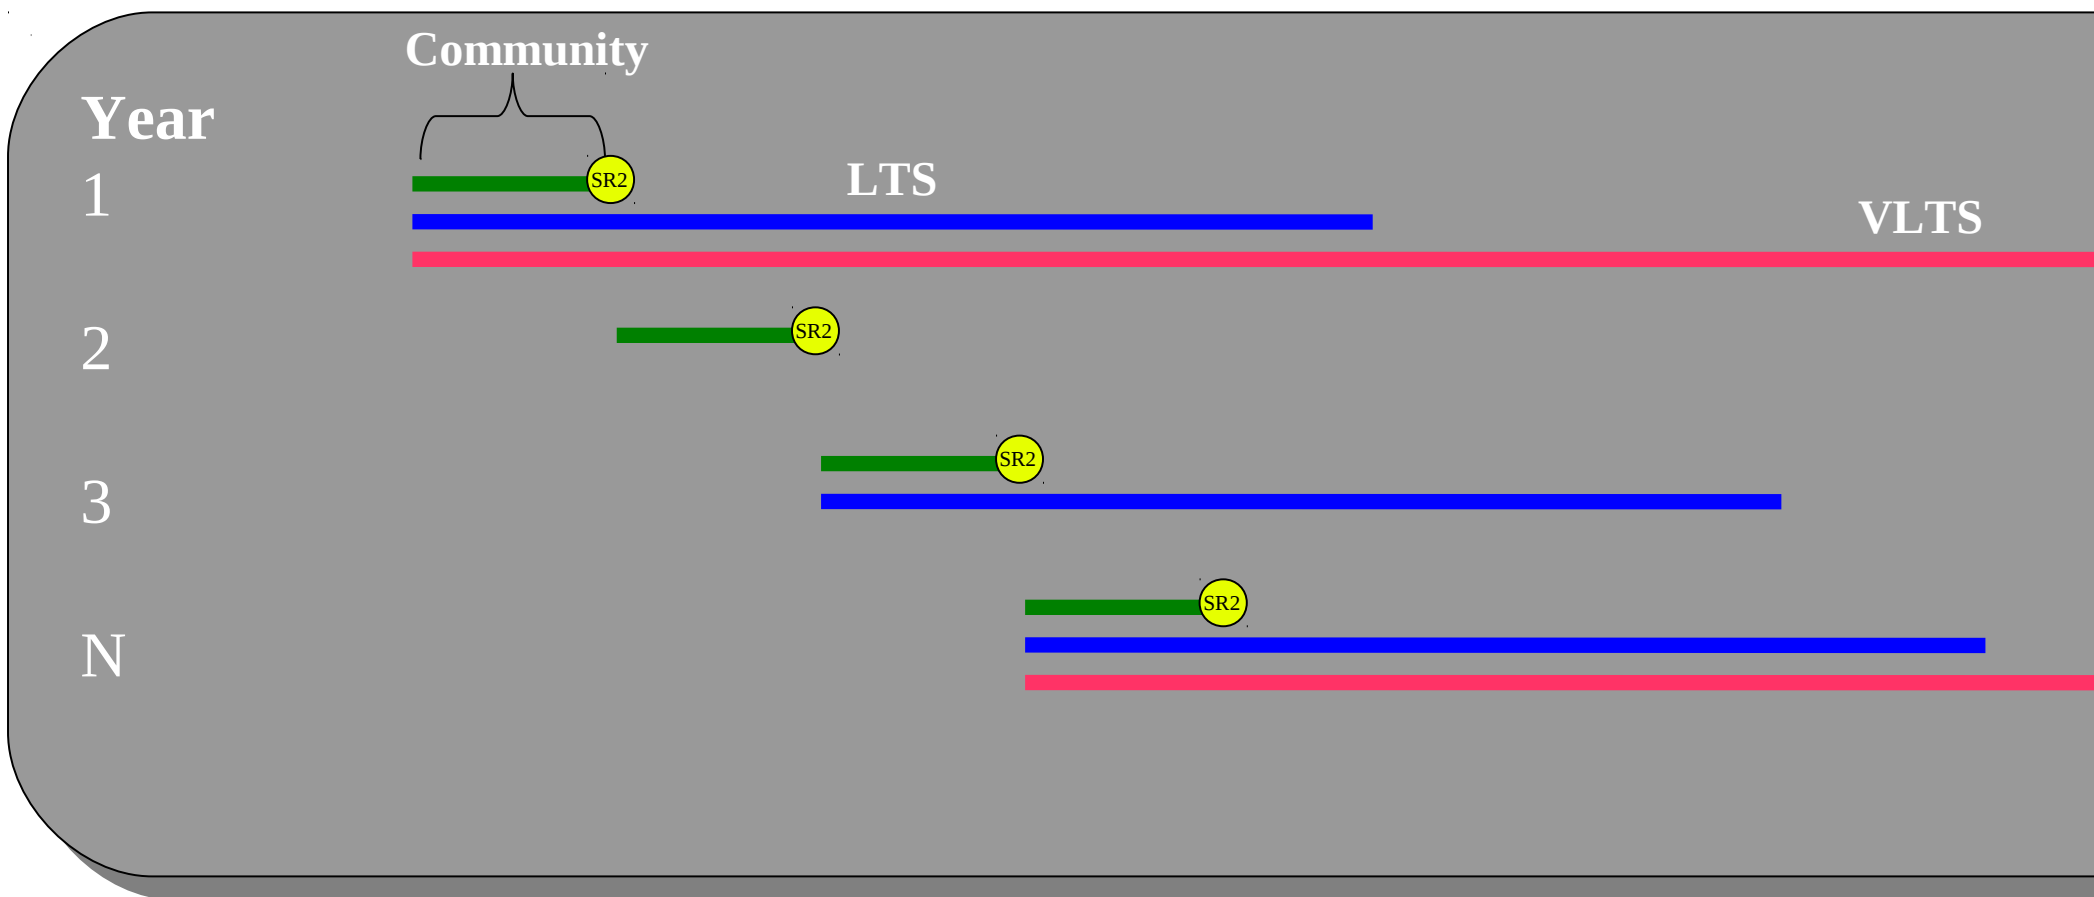

What if you need a company specific fix after release?

LTS Cadence

Every release will have a potential Long Term Support (LTS) and Very Long Term Support (VLTS) time period, as decided by the LTS IWG Steering Committee & subject to budget. The following are potential examples:

The LTS forge is available and being used as of February 2013.

The Members of LTS

Premium Services

Annual membership dues provide 1 year of the following:

Service	Description
Bug Privacy	Can keep bugs “private” using company-only bug tracking groups prior to commit.
Maintenance Committers	Appoint maintenance committers that can develop and build in the LTS forge.
Build Infrastructure	Can build and sign software (as the Eclipse Foundation) from the LTS forge.
Advanced tools	Use of tools available to LTS Premium members only.
Directory Service	Access the LTS directory of providers and consumers.

LTS IWG Steering Committee and Premium Members receive LTS Premium Services at no added cost.

LTS Readiness

To be considered LTS-Ready, a project must:

- Store code in a distributed code repository supported at Eclipse (e.g. Git)
- Build with CBI
- Adheres to Eclipse IP policies and especially: only pulls dependencies from Foundation controlled sources such as Orbit, Maven.eclipse.org, downloads.eclipse.org, etc
- Manage bugs in Bugzilla and have meta data capable of routing bugs to each LTS release
- Release software as part of the annual simultaneous release
- Provide an automated testing suite

Or

- Be approved as a LTS project by the LTS Steering Committee

LTS Participant Member Dues

Dues are assessed using sliding scale based on revenue as follows:

Annual Turnover	Annual Dues
