Notes

1. Current status and next steps concerning open pull requests

Cmake -> Servant (Cmake buildsystem for openPASS core), updated by intech and approved through code review

A problem with the GUI build through qmake came up. Possibly this can be fixed with the upcoming pull request by intech. If not, a detailed analysis is needed.

Intech is currently working on an update of their existing pull request concerning multiple changes and bug fixes in the core. The AC confirmed, that this pull request should also contain the latest changes regarding observer and spawner.

VW GoA will commit the cmake buildsystem for the GUI upcoming Monday (User story 1322).

Afterwards, ITK will update their pull request. Intech will be available for support regarding adaptations to the new implementations and to avoid merge conflicts.

BMW will present the changes for the spawner and observer from a user perspective in a follow up meeting.

2. Open topics towards Release 0.7

- Mercedes will add a user story describing two result plugins for data analysis in the GUI, which will be committed for Release 0.7
- Tuan proposed an updated timeline:

	PR in-tech	PR in-tech2	PR ITK/ Mercedes/ Bosch	PR
Contained	1292	1305	1285, Bosch	1301, repository directory structure
User Stories	1341	1306	1286, Mercedes	1304, ITK
		1307	1287, Mercedes	1303, coding conventions
		1308	1288, Mercedes
		1311	1289, Mercedes
		1318	1290, ITK

PR	10.06	24.07-01.07	06.07-13.07	17.07-24.07
Review	10.06-24.06	01.07-06.07	13.07-17.07	24.07-29.07
Moved to Release 0.8:
	1293	required for CI
	1303	starting with Release 0.7, coding rule compliance is mandatory for each commit

3. Further Notes

- Usage of system config saving from the GUI might lead to incompatibility with the core (due to parameter id's).
-> Jan will create a story in Tuleap for further discussion and fixes towards Release 0.8
- Due to changes concerning observer and spawner, the GUI will no longer be compatible with the core
-> Has to be highlighted in the Release 0.7 so that users know upfront!
